

Biography of Nasreddine Benhamouda

Nasreddine Benhamouda is a visionary architect, project management expert, and dedicated entrepreneur committed to building bridges between cultures. He holds a degree in architecture from the École Polytechnique d'Architecture et d'Urbanisme of Algiers, complemented by a DEA and a Master's in Art History from the Institute of Art and Archaeology at the Sorbonne – Paris. His academic expertise, combined with hands-on experience, enables him to lead innovative and impactful projects.

As Co-Founder of Brya Group, he leads an ambitious initiative focused on e-learning, consulting, and the development of international partnerships. He leverages his skills in strategy and complex project management to empower talent and foster intercultural collaboration.

His professional journey includes key roles such as Project Director at Eurl Renobat, where he oversaw team management, contract negotiation, and site coordination. He also managed a construction company (Sarl KBN Investissement) and contributed to real estate projects as a project analyst at Sarl Promoderne. His architectural work at Eurl Urbati and heritage project management at the Palais du Dey in Algiers further strengthened his expertise in design, planning, and the preservation of architectural heritage.

Driven by a passion for ecology, art, and world cultures, Nasreddine Benhamouda is also an emerging writer. His mission: to inspire, connect cultures, and help build a sustainable future.
